TalentHook partners with Visibility Software reinforcing a commitment to full service recruitment solutions.

Visibility Software's Cyber Recruiter ATS now includes seamless resume export functionality with TalentHook Sphere.

August 18th, 2008 Las Vegas, NV – Resource Edge, LLC, creators of TalentHook, a cutting-edge resume spidering technology solution, have partnered with Visibility Software, creators of Cyber Recruiter to further support a mutual commitment to offering clients a full recruitment solution.

Both companies are enjoying a very productive year with new features and added functionality bolstering excitement about the Cyber Recruiter and TalentHook Sphere. The development team at Visibility Software recently added great features to Cyber Recruiter including four major enhancements: an Agency Portal, Job Agents for Applicants, the development of a New Hire Process and the ability to track multiple openings within a requisition. Earlier this year, TalentHook released its most recent version, TalentHook Sphere, featuring a redesigned user interface, the addition of over 800 new resume sites, shared tracking capability and advanced searching functionality on compatible sites. Together, the products work to provide a streamlined process for online resume search and retrieval, candidate communication and management for recruitment professionals.

Resource Edge CEO Phil Gonzalez is excited about the opportunity to strategically serve the recruitment community by way of their ongoing relationship with Visibility Software. "Visibility Software has an incredible product in Cyber Recruiter. Our clients that utilize this applicant tracking system are able to export their resume searches effortlessly. Visibility Software is always working to provide their clients with a comprehensive web based product and we can certainly appreciate their aggressive approach to product upgrades." Gonzalez explains.

Visibility Software CIO Michael Warden was thrilled to work with an experienced company like TalentHook. "It was refreshing to see the level of detail and focus placed on integration. They were extremely comprehensive and helpful, indicating that they have become quite adept at integrating with other companies' software. Additionally, the technical support on the development side was incredibly responsive and even proactive in helping our developers along the way." Warden adds. "With a simple solution like Cyber Recruiter, we look for Partners who can seamlessly integrate their functionality while enhancing the overall customer experience."

Both Resource Edge and Visibility Software maintain active conference and network event schedules that allow them to find additional ways to partner and highlight the strengths of both products to new and existing clients. Most recently, Visibility Software showcased their product at the SHRM Conference and Expo in Chicago in June. In the Fall, TalentHook will attend several recruitment and staffing events in both California and Nevada highlighting TalentHook Sphere. TalentHook plans to announce more updates and will be continuously adding to their resource list throughout the year.
